PITH AND POINT.

—The wisest man never hits the bull's-eye of success.—N. P. Proulx.

—The man who is not successful in love at least escapes the horrors of the war that may follow that success.—Pack.

—You may only drink from sorrow's cup but once in your whole life, yet you will never be able to get the bitter taste of the drops out of your mouth thereafter.—Once a Week.

—Bring up a child in the way that he should go, and when he is old just hear him take all the credit to himself for his virtuous youth.—Somerville Journal.

—While circumstances may often make or mar a man's life, we may often make the circumstance. The only way to conquer circumstance, is to be the biggest circumstance yourself.—Amos.

—There is not a man in the world but desires to be, or to be thought to be, a wise man; and yet, if he considered how little he contributes himself thereto, he might wonder to find himself in any tolerable degree of understanding.—Clarendon.

—Only those who know the supremacy of the intellectual life, the life which has a seed of ennobling thought and purpose within it, can understand the grief of one who falls from that avenue of activity into the absorbing, soul-wasting struggle with worldly annoyances.—George Eliot.

—He who does the best he can is always improving. His best of yesterday is outside today, and his best of today will be outside to-morrow. It is this steady progress, no matter from what point it starts, that forms the chief element of all greatness and goodness.—Hallist.

—While two men watch for chances, one man makes chances; while ten men wait for something to turn up, one man turns something up; so, while ten fail, one succeeds, and is called a man of luck—the favorite of fortune. There is no luck like pluck, and fortune favors those who are most indifferent to fortune.—Hallist.

—A man is often a revelation unto himself. When in a conversation he advances a particularly brilliant theory, or explains away with remarkable and unusual adroitness a standing difficulty, it does not necessarily follow that he has evolved all this by slow and painful degree previous to his outburst. On the contrary, he may be surprised by his outburst of genius as any of his friends.—Judge.

—In spite of pretense and its short-lived success, men are generally valued at what they are worth. Sincerity and honest endeavor win, and his best of to-day will be outside to-morrow. It is this steady progress, no matter from what point it starts, that forms the chief element of all greatness and goodness.—Hallist.

Wanted.
We want an A. No. 1 Agent in this county at once, to take charge of our business, and conduct the sale of one of the very best, most meritorious, and fastest selling inventions ever offered to the American people. To the person we will pay a liberal salary or allow a large commission. For full particulars address—
VOLTAIC BELT CO.,
No. 218 Marshall, Mich.

Willing to settle.
Patient—'Ent 22 rather high for pulling a tooth!
Dentist—I think not. Fifty cents for extracting, and $1.00 for gas.
Patient—That's all right. I'll never kick at a $1.50 gas bill.—Lowell Citizen.

WE CAN AND DO
Guarantee Dr. Acker's Blood Elixir for it has been fully demonstrated to the people of this country that it is superior to all other preparations for blood diseases. It is a positive cure for syphilis poisoning, Ulcers, Eruptions and Pimples. It purifies the whole system and thoroughly builds up the constitution.
H. B. GARNER, Druggist.

Very Palpable.
"Do you know Dr. Biggill, Gazzanti?"
"Yes, I own him quite a large sum, Fangle."
"Ah! He doesn't know you very well, I see."—Yenowine News.

A DUTY TO YOURSELF.
It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick-headaches and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken, and do not gripe. H. B. GARNER, Druggist.

GERONIMO'S CAMP.

A glimpse at the captive Apache Chieftain, Geronimo, who is now in the hands of the United States Army, is a most interesting and instructive study. It would be difficult to find any thing more picturesque and interesting than the life of this brave and noble warrior. He is the last of a noble race, and his life is a story of valor and sacrifice. He is now in the hands of the United States Army, and his life is a story of valor and sacrifice. He is now in the hands of the United States Army, and his life is a story of valor and sacrifice.

It might affect the circulation. Clerk of Humorous Paper (to Mr. Wife).—I've got a splendid joke which I'm going to write down and hand to our editor. He will be outside to-morrow. It is this steady progress, no matter from what point it starts, that forms the chief element of all greatness and goodness.—Hallist.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

—The first Young Men's Christian Association in the United States Army was recently established at Fort Monroe, Va.

—Leading clergymen of Boston, Irreverent of denomination, have petitioned the State Legislature to permit the Salvation Army to use its peculiar methods of attracting the attention of the multitude.

—In northern Michigan there are many counties without a church of any denomination, and thousands of men, women and children grow up in the towns and in the woods who never have heard the word of God or seen a church.

—Protestant missionaries began Christian work in China in 1855. The first native converts were baptized by Rev. Horace Underwood, July, 1888. In 1885 a Christian church of the Presbyterian polity was organized. This had, in October, 1889, nearly one hundred members.

—Germany is to have a new Bible. For twenty-five years a committee has been sitting in revision of the famous work of Martin Luther. The last meeting of this revisionary body was held on the 10th of January. The work has been done by the printers, and it will soon be made public.

—In Cincinnati the Woman's Unionist Society is working hard to establish a free kindergarten for the children of the six thousand Italian who swell the population, and the Woman's Conference of Churches is trying to introduce industrial training into the public schools.

—The lower camp of Wisconsin have recently been the scene of remarkable work. The State W. C. T. U. has kept an itinerant missionary constantly in the field and the camps have been supplied with the best of literature by the various religious societies. The men do read with eagerness all that they receive and are grateful for the interest shown in their welfare.

—In Paris there are five professional schools for girls. The course of instruction embraces modern languages, domestic economy, industrial designing, cutting and fitting garments, and accounts. Each school is equipped with a kitchen, and workshops for making coats, dresses, and other articles of trade. Girls are admitted at fourteen, and remain three or four years.

—Rev. W. H. Murray, a missionary at Peking, has devised a system for teaching the blind, and has reduced the Chinese language to 408 syllables. By this system the blind have been enabled to learn to read with marvelous facility. The blind themselves are employed in the street-vending and printing of books, which are put out at an amazingly low rate, compared with books elsewhere for the blind in this country. Among the Chinese the blind are regarded with great respect, and they are watched with intense interest when they read with their fingers from the books which they carry in their hands.

Drunkennes—Liquor Habit—In all the World there is but One Cure, Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be taken in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Sad Part.
Fred—I wish my wife would hurry up and marry me, if she is going to.
Edwin—Is she keeping you in suspense?
Fred—No, expense.—Detroit Free Press.

ADNER WAS INSURED.

Consequently He Was Able to Make a Thousand Dollars Without an Effort.

Adner Singleton was constantly annoyed with accident insurance agents. He spent much of his time on the road, and the agents assured him that unless he had himself insured, he should, ere long, be laid up with a broken leg, without any revenue coming in. Singleton had just returned from a trip to the northwest and was sitting in his office, when an agent, the most persistent of the lot, came in.

"Ah," said the agent, "I see that you have gotten back safe this time."
"Yes, I always get back safe."
"Ah, and that's what Dan Butterfield always said, and so he did until the other day, and then the train ran off the track and broke one of his legs. He came within one of insuring with me, just before he started, but, remembering that he always did get back all right, he held out against my entreaty and lost interests of his family, and now look at him. Lying up and not able to pay his board."

Singleton started for a moment, and then said: "What advantages do you offer?"
"Well, now, I'll tell you: Take out one of our policies, and in case you have a leg broken, for instance, you get one thousand dollars. Two legs broken, two thousand. See? Wait a moment. If you are killed your family will receive five thousand. Hold on again. If you lose one eye, you have one thousand dollars, and as much again if you lose both eyes."

"That's fair enough," Singleton answered, almost convinced.
"Nothing could be fairer. Suppose I write you up?"
"All right, I am with you."

He saw "written up," and the conquering agent, happy in his achievement, took his departure. Singleton went out on the road the next day, and shortly afterward the insurance company received information that in a railway accident he had lost an eye. Several days after he returned, and, sure enough, one of his eyes was gone. He shook the agent by the hand, and said: "Old fellow, you did me a great turn. I am now almost incapacitated, and the chances are that I shall lose my job with the company, as the firm is rather inclined to have a prejudice against one-eyed men."

Singleton received his money and went home, and when he had counted it time and again, he took a glass of water (?) from the bureau and put in his eye.

"Rather an easy way to make money," he mused, as he adjusted the sightless ball, "and I wonder that I did not think of it before. I will now go and have myself insured in another company."—Arkansas Traveler.

Scrofula Cured.
Mr. S. I. Bacons, of Monticello, Ga., writes: "When the best physicians failed to cure a case of Scrofula of my son, I procured a bottle of Dr. King's Specific (S. S. S.) and the cure was effected. I do not hesitate to pronounce S. S. S. the best blood purifier in the land. I cheerfully recommend it to all who are suffering from impure blood."

A Thing of Good Report.
Bessie—Mamma, it's perfectly right to think on whatsoever things are of good report on Sunday, isn't it?
Mamma—Why, certainly, my child.
Bessie—Well, then, I am going to think on my arithmetic this evening. If I don't, my report won't be good this week.—Burlington Free Press.

BRASS MULE MEDICINE.

A Chinese Cure That is Simpler Than the Patent Drugs of America.

A traveler recently returned from Peking says that he saw there a peculiar method of cure. In a temple outside one of the city gates is to be found a brass mule of life size supposed to have wonderful healing properties. Patients suffering from every imaginable disease seek this temple to obtain a cure.

The method pursued is as follows: Suppose you suffer from sciatica, you go with all speed to this famous temple, and having discovered the particular part of the brass mule corresponding to the painful region of your own body, you must rub the animal a certain number of times, and then with the same hand shampoo your own disabled member, and then—well then the pain goes.

The special feature of this method of cure is its delightful simplicity. Is your foot aching? Just scrub the mule's teeth and afterward your own, and voilà! the cure is complete. Have you an ulcer of the ear? Pass the tip of your fingers to and fro over the particular eyeball of the mule, and then with well-regulated pressure rub repeatedly the afflicted eye.

The mule has unappreciated his sight during the many years he has been engaged in his benevolent work, the eyeballs, we are told, having been gradually worn away, as the result of constant friction until now you have only the empty orbit to operate upon.

The animal is patched in all directions with fresh pieces of brass to put on to cover holes produced by the constant friction of eager patients, and a new, perfectly whole, mule stands ready at hand, awaiting the day when his old colleagues, having fallen to pieces in the temple, shall give him an opportunity of likewise benefiting posterity.—Chicago Herald.
